

APPENDIX 1: DETERMINING REASSESSMENTS WITHIN A LEVEL: EXAMPLES

Consideration of Level 5 results	Proposed outcome and rationale for Programme Board decision
Student A undertakes a level per academic year (full-time programme) Fails 80 credits (4 units of 20 credits each during the level). One Board (an end-of-level Programme Board).	Reassessed in 2 units with failed formal element mark(s) capped and repeats 2 units with unit marks capped. ----- As Student A is entitled to reassessment in up to 40 credits, Board discretion is exercised to determine which 2 units should be reassessed and which 2 repeated.
Student B undertakes a level over two academic years (part-time route) Fails 80 credits (1 unit of 20 credits in the first half of the level and a further 3 units of 20 credits each in the second half of the level). Two Programme Boards (a mid-level Programme Board after the first 60 credits and an end-of-level Programme Board after the remaining 60 credits).	Reassessed in 2 units with failed formal element mark(s) capped and repeats 2 units with unit marks capped. ----- As Student B is entitled to reassessment in up to 40 credits, the mid-level Programme Board permits reassessment in the failed element(s) of the 1 failed 20-credit unit. Student B successfully completes their reassessment and proceeds to Year 2. As Student B is entitled to reassessment in a further 20 credits, the end-of-level Programme Board permits reassessment in 1 failed 20-credit unit. A further 2 failed 20-credit units must be repeated. Board discretion is exercised to determine which of the three units should be reassessed and which two repeated.
Student C undertakes a level over two academic years (part-time route) Fails 80 credits (2 units of 20 credits each in the first half of the level and a further 2 units of 20 credits each in the second half of the level) Two Programme Boards (a mid-level Board after the first 60 credits and an end-of-level Assessment Board after the remaining 60 credits).	Reassessed in 2 units with failed formal element mark(s) capped and repeats 2 units with unit marks capped. ----- As Student C is entitled to reassessment up to 40 credits, the mid-level Board permits reassessment in the failed element(s) of the 2 failed 20-credit units. Student C successfully completes their reassessment and proceeds to Year 2. As Student C is no longer eligible for reassessment by the end-of-level Programme Board, the student must repeat 2 failed 20-credit units. There is no Board discretion to determine which units must be made good through reassessment and which units must be repeated because Student C reached the level entitlement for reassessment at the mid-level Programme Board.
